CURATED RESOURCES FOR
TEACHING and LEARNING in PRECISION HEALTH
Kiara Mikita, PhD

MARCH 2022

STARTING YOUR COURSE
- Online Remote Teaching Checklist
- 3 Steps to Activating a Relationship Rich Culture
- Empowering Students with Your Personal Narrative
- Exploring Online Best Practices to Implement in Your Own Course

CHECK THIS OUT!
- NextGen EDI Data Symposium
  This international virtual Symposium will explore what is meant by EDI data, and the role of EDI data, analytics, visualizations, and technology in advancing equity, diversity, inclusion, and accessibility, and will feature over two dozen internationally renowned speakers.

TALKS and WORKSHOPS
- ZOOM
  - Teaching with Zoom: Technical and Pedagogical Tips
    (April 5)
  - Teaching with Zoom: Hands On!
    (April 5)
- BEST PRACTICES
  - EDI in Health Professions Education: Identity, Intersectionality, and Praxis
    (March 17)
  - Making your D2L Course More Inclusive to Students
    (March 22)
- TOOLS
  - Student Assessment and Feedback Strategies for TAs
    (March 22)
  - Next Level D2L Student Experience
    (March 24)
  - Best Practices for Designing a Quality Rubric
    (March 29)
- Indigenous Knowledge Public Lecture Series: Dr. Karla Jessen Williamson
  (March 24)
- Confronting Settler Colonialism in Higher Education: A Conversation with Leigh Patel
  (March 23)

FINISHING YOUR COURSE
- Fizzle or Finale: The Final Day of Class
- How to End a Course: Teaching Tips
- The Last Day of Class: Fun, Low Prep Ways to End the Semester
- Planning for Course Endings: Closure Activities

“You’re calling me a racist?”: The Emotional Landscape of Racial Encounters

PLEASE CLICK AROUND AND EXPLORE!